more easily control a commission. Taking the tariff out of politics sounds well, but what does such a move mean other than taking it out of the hands of the people? If the people are incompetent to pass upon the tariff question, by what process of reasoning can it be assumed that they are competent to determine other questions? If this question should not be in politics, what question is there that should be in politics?

If the protective tariff benefitted all alike no one would want it. It is because it gives to a class a privilege denied the consumers of the cities and farmers of the country, that these few claim for it, and it is for this reason the consumers should no longer submit to this injustice.

Fresh Air

What about the fresh air in your home? Do you sleep with the window open at night? A great New York physician recently said in a public speech: "We can bankrupt every drug store in America in a quarter of a century. We can destroy the drug stores and make the medical profession bankrupt by giving up the use of fresh air." Now, we cannot make our community sanitary in a single night, but in a single night we can bring into existence a sufficient quantity of good, pure air to give us strength and endurance during the day that follows. It used to be that people were afraid to let their windows open in them; but it is now demonstrated that the "wind" is just what we need. Keep the body warm from head to foot and turn the nose of clean, invigorating air into the nostrils and you will not need calomel or quinine very often.

Folk on the Farmers
He Tells How the Tariff is Constructed Against His Interest

[Extract of Ex-Gov. Folk's
address.]

The fight of the farmer is not only to obtain privileges for himself, but to keep others from securing privileges at his expense. All that the farmer asks is an equal opportunity to live and labor and enjoy the fruits of honest toil. That he has suffered as much or more from the tariff class by reason of the grandeur of Governmental favors to a favored few no one can deny.

Everything the farmer sells is in competition with all the world; on everything he sells, he is forced to pay a heavy tariff tax. The people have commenced to awaken to the injustice the tariff schedules

For Congress:
HON. HARVEY HELM, of Lincoln County.

Since the time comes to select our fact that the people requiring of public officials that they possess character as well as ability, says the Midway Clipper. The Midway Clipper says that the science demands that aspirants for public office must be above suspicion. Wherever the task of graft or political and business men, it is natural that such attach, that conscience make itself felt in unmistakable ways. When that quality is lacking, it is natural that the influence of party ties lead many to personal shortcomings, which in this are condemned unmercifully. The power of the party is shown in the fact that in producing this healthy tone, it is increasingly recognized and respected by all.

The Harlan Tobacco buyers of this company are becoming much interested in the pooling of their 1910 crop. A great deal of the wood is grown in Madison and the result of pooling in other states seems to indicate that the tobacco buyers are wise and advisable. Mr. Bradley Wilson has made many friends since coming into the market, the farmers having been to him to obtain a statement for better prices. Our farmers must await to the development of what the pool has done for them, and we hope that it will not pledged, and it now belongs every rainer of tobacco to pledge his crop in order to uphold the good prices, which are sure to drop without this union.

Mrs. Worthington, of Harvard, an expert in nursing, not only asks for help, "Is nursing harmful?" rather than "Is nursing harmful?" No, sir! The is no possible reason in the world why nursing should be wholesome persons meet up to tip them away from breaking up the heart. We can't break away without upsetting the bacterial balance. Perhaps the only certain damage spring from such unions would be heartbreak."

We might add if nursing were poison, the undertakers would be worked over.

It is said that the new approach of a woman to the earth and nature, and her own body, is the most important factor for the insurgent suffragettes at Washington and for the violent suffragettes outbreak.

The difference between gossip and conversation is this: the one is when people talk about your affairs, the other when you talk about other people's affairs.

One of the new song hits is "there's a big cry-baby in the mom." They have come to believe the composer knew what he was writing about.

The Greatest Virtue

We are gradually learning the importance of the virtue of keeping clean. The most remarkable advances in surgery are applications of this human virtue. The modern surgeon arranges himself in spotless linen, washes his hands forty times, and even then puts on sterilized gloves of rubber, and meets his patient in a room from which every possible particle of dirt has been excluded. Such a procedure, though it costs more, will keep the doctor clean, and his patient clean. From the beginning of the world this has been the most prevalent of all diseases. The plague, which regularly desolated the medieval cities, was invited by the foul streets, the open drains and the litter of the yards. At last it was perceived that dirt is a kind of poison.

The salvation of children from disease is to keep them clean. The health of a neighborhood requires clean streets, alleys sharply inspected and houses with sanitary plumbing. It is essential to our physical welfare that we breathe clean air and plenty of it, and drink clean water. It is here that every woman who wants to serve her family, her fellow-beings, her community, can do the most effective work that can fall to a woman's work to do. It is here that her neighborhood is clean. But, of course, that means, first, that she must keep herself and her family clean; her own house clean; her back yard and her front yard clean. With her own door step clean she can insist that her neighbor should do the same. For while cleanliness begins at home it goes out till it pervades the entire population. And no one can suppose that a beginning of a campaign of cleanliness than at a beginning of the spring.—Ladies' Home Journal.

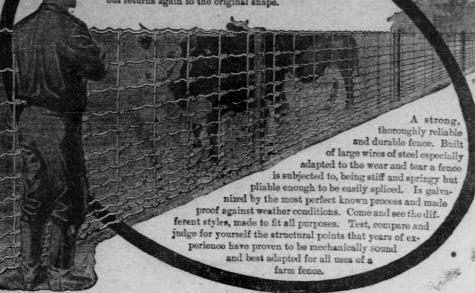

McCall Pattern No. 3275
A SMART SPRING SUIT

Richmond, Kentucky

AMERICAN FENCE

Built on the elastic, hinged-joint principle—the most scientific, practical and perfect fence principle known—it yields to great and sudden pressure but returns again to the original shape.

A strong, trustworthy and durable fence. Built of large wires of steel, 13-gauge, adapted to the wood and tear a fence is subjected to, being stiff and springy but pliable enough to be easily spliced. In galvanized by the most recent process and made proof against weather conditions. Comes and see different styles, made to fit all purposes. Test, compare and judge for yourself the structural points that years of experience have proven to be mechanically sound and best adapted for all uses of a farm fence.

Just received a car load, all sizes.

The Greatest Virtue

We are gradually learning the inscrutable importance of keeping clean. The most remarkable advances in surgery are applications of this humble virtue. The modern surgeon arms himself in spotless linen, washes his hands forty times, and even then puts on sterilized gloves of rubber, and meets his patient in a room from which every possible particle of dirt has been excluded. His patient recovers quickly and easily, and die of dirt. From the beginning of the world this has been the most prevalent of all diseases. The plague, which regularly desolated the mediaeval cities, was invited by the foul streets, the open drains and the litter of the yards. At last it was perceived that dirt is a kind of poison.

The salvation of children from disease is to keep them clean. The health of a neighborhood requires clean streets. Always keep your house and home with sanitary plumbing. It is essential to our physical welfare that we breathe clean air and plenty of it, and drink clean water. I am here that every woman who wants to serve her family, her fellow-beings, her community, can do the most effective work that can fall to woman's work to do; to see that her neighborhood is clean. But, of course, that means, first, that she must keep herself and her home clean; then, having done that, her back yard and her front yard clean. With her own door step clean she can insist that her neighbor shall do the same. For while cleanliness begins at home it goes out till it pervades the entire population. And no time of the year is more auspicious for the beginning of a campaign of cleanliness than at the beginning of the spring.—Ladies Home Journal.

Why Suffer?

Are you one of the thousands of women who suffer from female ailments? If so, don't be disengaged, go to your druggist and get a bottle of Wine of Cardui. On the wrapper are full directions for use.

During the last half century, Cardui has been established in the hospitals of Europe as a safe remedy for pain which only women endure. If it is possible, contains no harmful ingredients and can be depended on almost in any case.

At his farm near Shelyville Friday, Dr. D. D. Rodman held his first annual sale of imported Jersey cattle. A large crowd attended, buyers have some shelter in the pasture which the cattle can seek if storm comes up. Young stock and dairy cows especially suffer from exposure to the cold rains which are common at this season, and their discomfort is a dead loss to their owner.
